IR remote control unit for setting the flush-mounting presence detector 350-20056

niko

350-20057

IR remote control unit for setting the flush-mounting presence detector 350-20056

This remote control unit is suitable for setting the flush-mounting presence detector 350-20056 using IR technology. The factory settings that can be changed with this unit are the daylight factor (lux value), the length of time that the light remains on etc.

This Niko remote control is used to set up the flush-mounting presence detector (350-20056) using infrared signals. With this device, the factory settings can be changed. The settings that can be changed include the daylight factor (lux value) and the time period during which the light remains on.

niko